WHITE CAPS GETS LEDGE ON 600 LEVEL

Tonopah and Goldfield securities took a rest today in order that White Caps might make a showing on the strength of having picked up the ledge on the 600-foot level. The crosscut is in three rounds of holes on the west side of the east orebody and the enrichment is similar to that on the fifth level where the values do not go high on the footwall side but increase steadily as the lens is cut closer to the hanging wall. The fact that the orebody was entered two days earlier than what was expected is taken to indicate that the lens has either widened or been thrown further east. Manhattan was reported greatly excited.

The market otherwise was bearish with profit taking orders that threw Tonopah Divide back to $2.35 with sales of only 1200 in four lots. Midway was a good trader with sales of 12,000 at prices ranging from 37 to 34 and 36 at which the morning session closed. Cash Boy reported having three feet of ore which induced a firmer feeling with sales at 9c.

OHIO VEIN BETTER IN THE M'NAMARA

Superintendent Simpson reports that the Ohio vein in MacNamara ground is showing tangible improvement. Both east and west drifts show an improvement with the west drift in a full face of milling ore and the east drift in a full face of a better grade showing rich bands of ore running through. Both drifts are extended from the top of a raise out of the 700-foot level.

TONOPAH MINER DIES IN COLFAX

The many friends of Allan McPhee, former foreman on the Rescue-Eula, will regret to hear of his death which occurred last Friday at Colfax, Cal., where he was only one day when the end came. Mr. McPhee was suffering from tubercular trouble combined with asthma and went up to the mountains in the hope of benefiting from the altitude and bracing environment but, according to the report, he deteriorated the visit too long and severely survived the journey. For many years the deceased served as shift boss on the Clermont and Red Top of the Goldfield Consolidated. He is supposed to have a mother in Canada.

KELLIHER CASE IS SET FOR WEDNESDAY

When the case of Gregory Sirac, charged with beating his wife, was called by Justice Grier this morning the courtroom was almost filled with friends of both sides who were eager to give testimony or to hear the salacious details of a domestic upheaval. Milton Detch appeared as counsel for Sirac and immediately notified the court that his client wanted a jury trial, whereupon the court adjourned the hearing to Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock so that the constable could serve a special panel of 24 jurors from whom the selection will be made.

HOSPITAL PATIENT DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Peter Glucovich died last evening at the Mine Operators' hospital from the effects of double pneumonia from which he was suffering in an advanced stage when he was admitted last Thursday. Little is known of the personal history of the man who was head of a family which suffered severely from influenza, every member passing through the experience until it reached the father. Glucovich recently sustained the loss of an eye through his own neglect. He was suffering from the presence of some foreign matter in the eye and was advised to call on the company surgeon but passed up the idea for five days when he was suffering from pain that an operation was imperative. Glucovich was told to come around next day and did not appear for five days when it was too late to save the eye. The same procrastination is said to be the cause of contracting pneumonia which was of the double lobar type when reported.

COST OF RUNNING STATE COMES HIGH

The controller's report for the state of Nevada shows that during 1918 a surplus of $402,876.02 accumulated in the state treasury, the total expenditures amounting to $1,114,78.31 while the total receipts were $1,517,660.33. Deficiencies occurred, however, in various funds appropriated for several state institutions and departments amounting to $52,400.66 and it is to cover these deficiencies that an appropriation bill was introduced in the assembly last week. The deficiencies were taken care of by the state board of examiners under a statutory provision.

The bulk of the receipts was from taxation, $1,106,160.55 being secured from that source. Interest on bonds came next with $164,577.06. Sale of licenses brought in $116,681.8, of which $34,945.60 was on automobiles and $74,745.80 on liquor licenses and escheats netted $13,055.57; fees $52,910.04; land sales and commissions, $34,734.06; miscellaneous, $20,153.87. In the latter category is included $5659.83, the state's share of the percentage taken from the semi-monthly betting machines during the last race meet at Reno and $12,673.8 derived from the sale of furs collected by the biological survey. Fish and game licenses netted $3,822.9.

ENGINEER RETIRES FROM MINA RUN

Engineer J. W. Smith has pulled the throttle for the last time after sitting on the right-hand side of the ash for forty-seven years and being a railroader for fifty-two years. He made his last trip out of Sparks on his Mina run last Friday and bade farewell to the engine that he has coaxed along the desert run for many years. December 25, 1918, he celebrated his seventieth birthday and passed the retirement mark at which engineers are retired from active service on the railroads and pensioned.

With the retirement of Mr. Smith, or "Johnny" Smith as he is called by his associates, the seniority board will see another name at the top of the list for he has the distinction of being the oldest engineer in point of service on the Salt Lake division and how his name will be removed from the board and another name will move to the head of the list. He came to work for the Southern Pacific as an engineer in 1877.

WHEN MAKING OUT A CHECK

Take Time Enough to Write Legibly and Be Sure Amount Is Indicated Clearly in Writing.

Do you know how to write a check so that it cannot be successfully tampered with? Experts declare that carelessness in that small matter is responsible for the loss of millions of dollars annually, the loss falling sometimes on the individual and sometimes on the bank. There are mechanical devices to prevent the raising of checks, but their use is not general, partly because of the expense, but more particularly, probably, because it adds one more to the multitude of things to be done.

For those who are daily taking chances William G. Pengelly, hand writing expert in a recent paper, offers some valuable advice in the drawing of checks. His first suggestion is to take enough time for the process to be sure of doing a good job. In filling in the space for the amount in numerals, write in legible figures, beginning close to the printed dollar mark; don't leave space for the insertion of another figure. Then write the amount in words, preferably beginning with a capital, at the left-hand end of the line; don't write it so that the amount stands in the middle of the line; having written the amount properly, draw a heavy line from the last letter to the word "Dollars" at the right. As he says, "block the words in" so that additions cannot be easily made either at the beginning or at the end. When the words are written clearly and with an initial of unmistakable identity, the check-raiser has little opportunity for his work.

Another safeguard Mr. Pengelly suggests is the writing of the amount of the check, either in figures or words, in red ink, above or within the signature at the bottom. In his experience he has found this to be a successful safeguard against fraud. But the all-important things are legibility of handwriting and proper location of the written amounts. Don't be in a hurry in writing a check. It is a haste that makes trouble.—Columbus Dispatch.

ESKIMO BREED MADE CORPORAL

(By Associated Press) JUNEAU, Alaska, Dec. 23.—(By Mail)—America's call to arms during the war met with no heartier response than from the residents of Alaska, and among these none was more eager to serve than George W. Porter, a native resident of white and Eskimo parentage, born in the Arctic region.

A letter from Porter to Rev. J. T. McQueen, superintendent of missions in Alaska for the Methodist church, indicates the fruit—the labors of missionaries in the far north are bearing fruit. Porter was educated at the Jesse Lee home at Unalakleet, Alaskan islands and his zeal to serve "for your land and my land," as he wrote, soon won him a corporalship in the army. He served in company E of an engineers' regiment at Camp Humphrey, Va., and in his letter he wrote:

"I joined the army myself. I was not drafted. I just got in myself, so I can help others now in France. I am going next Monday—that will be the 23rd of September. I am willing to go, too—my goodness. I am going to fight hard."

What because of Corporal Porter in the midst of human passions raging in France has not been learned, but missionaries of the north are proud that the lessons of patriotism they have been teaching have been rewarded in the type of men like Porter.
